TO FIGHT CONTRACT SYSTEM

Louisville, Feb. 25—Fourteen fine race horses burned at Cambridge City, Ind. In Kansas City the Santa Fe depot and 90 freight cars burned.

THE STREETS

Committee Held a Meeting Last Evening at the City Hall.

Proposition Considered for Slag—Use of Dump Carts Talked of.

The joint street committee of the general council held a meeting last night but did nothing definite. One matter discussed was the offer of the iron furnace people to give the city the slag from the furnace for the streets. This may be used as a base, for repaving the thoroughfares, but it is not deemed proper to put on the surface of the streets, as it has no cementing qualities and cuts every rubber tire that passes over it. If it is decided that the slag can be advantageously used as a base, however, the offer will be accepted.

Another matter considered was that of using only dump carts for hauling the city gravel and the dirt therefrom. Two men are required to load and unload the wagons now used while it is claimed that one man could do the work with a dump cart, but some of the committee are not satisfied that it would be economy as the carts do not hold as much as the wagons.

It seems to be the general opinion that if the gravel used on the streets were rolled with the street roller, it would remain much more substantial and save the city a great deal. Instead it is dumped on the streets and left to scatter and wash away.

England Extends Warm Welcome to President Francis.

President Roosevelt Is Highly Complimented by the Duke of Devonshire.

AN AUSPICIOUS OCCASION

London, Feb. 25—The dinner given by the American society in honor of Washington's birthday was the occasion for a brilliant assemblage, at which a welcome was given to D. R. Francis, president of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

The Duke of Devonshire and Lord Londonderry, members of the cabinet, officially voiced the good will of the British government, while the lord mayors of London and Bristol, the lord provost of Glasgow, Lord Strathcona and Lord Rothschild and several members of the house of commons gave expressions to hearty good wishes.

The Duke of Devonshire, in proposing the toast, "The President of the United States," referred to Roosevelt as a man who had made his mark as a successful civil service reformer, a great administrator, a gallant military leader and an eminent statesman, in whom he saw an intelligent and earnest friend of England.

"Never in any previous times," said the Duke of Devonshire, "have Anglo-American relations been more cordial. Both peoples are in fairly good humor with themselves, and so it is unlikely that they should be in a bad humor with each other."

"I welcome the tendency on the part of the United States to take a larger and keener interest in affairs outside the American continent."

Ambassador Choate, following in the same strain, declared that any kind of war on any kind of subject between Great Britain and America would not only be a great calamity, but an unspeakable crime.

President Francis described the motive and scope of the St. Louis exposition. He gave detailed figures, showing the care with which the money was expended to make every phase of the exhibition perfect and useful to the European exhibitors and visitors—in short, a golden milestone in the highway of human progress and coronation of civilization. He referred to the first great international exposition in London.

CIRCUIT COURT

One of the Railroad Condemnation Suits Decided.

Court Nearing a Close—Jurors Discharged Today.

This is the last week of the civil term of circuit court, and all the jurors who were not sitting on the present case were today finally discharged.

The case on trial at press time was that of the C. & N. O. railroad against E. F. Fittrell, and will probably consume the remainder of the week.

W. O. Schauf has filed a suit in circuit court against Sophia Baumgard and Kate Schauf for the possession of personal property amounting to $136.

In the R. L. Potter condemnation suit a verdict was rendered against the Illinois Central for $2,556 and costs. This was one of the suits where the railroad had to condemn property for a right of way for its Cairo division. The amount awarded in county court was $2,500, and it was appealed by the railroad company, the last verdict being $56 more than granted in the lower court.

Motions for a new hearing were made in the suits of F. G. Rudolph, admr., against the Paducah Street Railway Co. and in the case of Robert Boyd against the trustees of the colored Christian church.

Mr. F. Riglesberger left at noon for Chicago on business.

Mr. L. A. Lagomarsino Will Direct the Carnival Again This Year.

The Executive Committee Last Evening Chose Him to be Chairman.

WORK IN EARNEST BEGINS

The executive committee of the Carnival association, Messrs. L. A. Lagomarsino, G. R. Davis, J. J. Read and Charles Weille, met last evening, and Mr. Lagomarsino was chosen director-general for the approaching carnival, a position he is eminently qualified to fill, and has creditably filled for three successive seasons.

Mr. Lagomarsino is perhaps more familiar than any man in Paducah with the arrangements necessary before a carnival can be made a success, and he has given freely of his time and efforts to making past carnivals a success, without any remuneration whatever.

The committee has telegraphed the Bostock-Ferari Co. at St. Louis, the Gaskill-Mundy Co. at Cleveland, O., and the Western Carnival Co. at Buffalo, N. Y., that Paducah is ready to hear propositions, and a visit from representatives of these concerns is expected in a short time. The selection of the company to furnish attractions is one of the most important things in connection with a carnival, and as Paducah is such a fine carnival town there will be a scramble to get the contract.

The committee will appoint its sub-committees as soon as possible. It will doubtless be some little time before the location of the site is decided on, but there are several under consideration.

It is expected that the secretary and committeemen will be named by next Monday. This afternoon a meeting will be held with a view to selecting a site, but in all probability nothing definite will be done.

The shows this year will be different, according to Director General Lagomarsino, from anything yet seen here, and in addition an exhibit street will be arranged for the benefit of merchants' exhibits, as year before last. A great many merchants favored a street of this description last year, but it was decided to have the carnival without it, and this year the indications are that there will be merchants' exhibits in addition to the other attractions.

TO SPEAK HERE

Prominent Louisville Men Coming to Paducah.

Will Address the People at the City Hall Saturday.

Secretary George H. Dains, of the Commercial club, has received from Chairman A. Y. Ford, of Louisville, notice that he and Mr. Clarence Dallam will reach Paducah Saturday evening and address the people of Paducah at the city hall on the features and efforts of the Kentucky Exhibit association which has for its object the securing of a suitable representation of Kentucky at the St. Louis world's fair.

They hope to have a large crowd at 8 o'clock to hear them. Mr. Ford is managing editor of the Courier-Journal, and one of the best known men in Louisville, and Mr. Dallam is a former Paducahan, who has been living in Louisville for several years past and takes a great deal of interest in the state and in Louisville and, evidently in Paducah, his old home, as well.

DOC STUCK FOR $100

Trial Heard by Judge Sanders in Police Court Today.

Indicates That He Has Duped a Number of Girls—Interesting Testimony.

ALLEGED SEVERAL NAMES

The cases against Dr. A. Perkins, the clairvoyant and faith curist, who came here Tuesday a week ago and claimed to be organizing a show company, were called in Judge Sanders' court this morning, and there was on hand a large crowd to hear the testimony. The defendant, who had been guarded during the night by a special officer, was represented by Attorneys Moss & Moss and J. Wheeler Campbell.

The three attractive young ladies and Mrs. Perkins were all on hand, as were three men connected with the concern who were summoned as witnesses.

The first one introduced was a young man named Leitheiser, who said he joined the doctor in Little Rock, Ark., in December. He was asked by Prosecutor Gilbert to tell Perkins' real name, but the court sustained an objection, holding that the man could be prosecuted under one name as well as another.

The young man then stated that last Sunday night Perkins came into room 26 at the New Richmond, where the two young men and the three young ladies were, and said that there was a traitor in the company, and that when he discovered who it was he was going to kill him or her. He used very abusive language, and told his wife, who came in later, that she was a "d—d w—," and that he was going to kill her and ship her home in a pine box.

The first witness did not seem disposed to tell much, but admitted that his feelings were not good towards the doctor because the latter owed him money and would not pay it.

The next man was William R. Stanley, who said he was a drug clerk for the Van Vleet company of Memphis, and in answer to an advertisement in a Memphis paper ten days ago became "business manager" for Perkins. He said that Sunday night when they were all in room 26 at the hotel Perkins came in, accompanied by another man, who is supposed to be his partner, and said that there was a traitor amongst them. He called the three young ladies, Misses Gertrude Lynch, Hubbard and Johnson, street walkers and other vile names, and said he would kill the traitor upon discovery, placing his hand in his hip pocket at the same time.

His wife came in about this time and he called her abusive names, said he would kill her and ship her home in a wooden box, that he would get a divorce from her, and other things.

The woman retorted, according to the witness, that he could do so as soon as he desired and he wouldn't have any trouble in getting rid of her. That he could just get his little papers and she would sign them up.

The witness was asked if he was not addicted to the use of morphine or cocaine, but declared that he was not. He said he had two bottles of cocaine on which the seals had not been broken, which he gave to Dr. Lightfoot when the latter attended him Monday, and also an anti-toxin syringe, but said he used no drugs of any kind, and was not under the influence of cocaine at the time the trouble is said to have occurred. He got the cocaine when he worked for the Van Vleet Drug Co.

The first young lady called was Miss Gertrude Lynch of Memphis, who said she was 14 years old and joined the "company" because she wanted to go on the stage. Her mother, she said, gave her written consent at Memphis. She was to be paid $10 a week and expenses while on the road, and came here with the "doctor" from Memphis. She has never yet seen any part she was to play in

Cured

At 70 of Heart Disease Contracted

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Effected Cure.

Heart disease is curable, but in people of advanced age it does not readily lend itself to ordinary treatment. There is, however, hope for all sufferers in Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, which we know from watching hundreds of cases and from the letters of grateful sufferers, will cure where all else has failed. It is not only a wonderful cure for weak and diseased hearts, but it is a blood tonic, a regulator of the heart's action and the most effective treatment ever formulated for improving the circulation of the blood.

"During the Civil War I contracted heart disease, and in 1866, while living in the grand old town of Lexington, Va., I grew so much worse, I left there with my wife to visit my sister-in-law, Mrs. T. A. Kirby, at Roanoke, Va. While I said nothing to anyone I never expected to live to return to the dear old town. On reaching Mrs. Kirby's she insisted I should try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I procured a few bottles of it, also the Nervine and Tonic. After using one or two bottles, I could see no improvement, and I despaired of ever being better, but my faithful wife insisted on keeping it up, which I did. Improvement soon began in earnest and I took in all fifteen or sixteen bottles. I was restored to perfect health and while I am 70 years old, I am comparatively a boy. You sir, are a benefactor, and I cheerfully recommend Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to suffering humanity."—J. L. SLAUGHTER, Salem, Va.

DRY GOODS CO.

Lonely and Peaceful

Hundreds of Have

Half-Starved and Ill-Housed Men and Women Present a Problem.

London, Feb. 25.—Tramping battalions of the unemployed have taken the place of the movements of the mighty army in South Africa fighting the battle of the empire. The commons settled down, after ceremonial and pageantry, to a two days' debate of questions of paramount importance connected with the poverty and physical degeneracy of the swarming masses of darkest London. John Burns, Jesse Collings, Sir John Gorst and Keir Hardie proposed remedies for social leprosy which the hard-working vicars and missionaries of the east end have been struggling to overcome by organized religious and charitable effort. The ministers took an easy-going view of the existing evils and declined to commit themselves to drastic measures for promoting emigration from overcrowded towns to the country, or for providing public work on a large scale or rehousing the poor.

There are half a million unemployed in London in the worst seasons, and another million may be irregularly occupied with wretchedly paid work, and the process of deterioration in working capacity is constantly going on among the ill-housed and half-starved masses in the imperial capital.

It is a question which appeals to practical workers among the poor in London. The march of ragged battalions through the streets week after week has forced it upon the attention of parliament, where the government majority has fallen to 39 and 40 on two amendments to the address.

WINS PULLMAN SUIT

COLORADO PREACHER GIVEN DAMAGES OF $500 BECAUSE HE WAS REFUSED A MEAL.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 25.—In the United States court a jury awarded $500 damages to the Rev. Henry P. Johnson, of Camden, a colored man, who sued the Pullman Palace Car company for $10,000. Johnson is the editor of the Christian Advocate, and on March 25 last, while riding on a Pullman car between Richmond, Va., and Washington sought service in the dining car. He said he was refused food by different subterfuges, notwithstanding he applied three times. Finally, when all the passengers had been served and the employees were eating, he said he was offered food.

The crest of the rise was reached at this point this morning, and by night the river, which has been over the danger line for several days past, will be falling. Rivermen will be glad to see the waters recede, as they have been greatly handicapped by the high stage, and most of the smaller landings have been under water and landings impossible.

BABY'S FUTURE

Something for Mothers to Think About.

Lives of Suffering and Sorrow Averted

And Happiness and Prosperity Assured by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfigurement is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest and most effective treatment available, viz., The Cuticura Treatment.

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool the blood in the severest cases, are all that can be desired for the alleviation of the suffering of skin tormented infants and children, and the comfort of worn-out parents.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, in the form of washes for annoying irritations and inflammations, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves.

FLOOD WALL.

A GIGANTIC ENTERPRISE BEGUN AT GALVESTON.

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 25.—The cornerstone of the $1,500,000 sea wall was laid with imposing ceremony and a parade of citizens and marines and officers from the United States battleships at anchor in the harbor here. The work on the sea wall has progressed most satisfactorily since its beginning last October. It will be three miles in length and give absolute protection to the city even from a stage of water equal to the great and disastrous tidal wave of the 1900 storm.

The funds for its construction were raised by popular subscription to a bond issue, and most of the money was subscribed by local men. The city has been exempted from state taxes for a period of thirteen years as assistance in bearing the burden of the great wall for its protection.

INTO BANKRUPTCY.

FATEFUL PANATICISM

Horrible Treatment of a Young Woman at Hartford.

Kept in the Frozen Water Until Unconscious by Dowrites.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 25.—Rev. Linden Jones, a disciple of Dowie, who took Mrs. Tilda Sperry of Hartford down to the banks of the Connecticut river and immersed her in the almost frozen water, after cutting a hole through the ice, may, if Mrs. Sperry dies, be charged with murder. He told the innocent and deluded young woman that unless she was baptized before her babe was born she and the babe would die.

Mrs. Sperry, days before she was immersed, begged and beseeched of Rev. Jones to postpone the service until after her babe was born, but he was obdurate and insisted, and the mother-in-law, Mrs. Sperry, Sr., was on the minister's side, and she literally, with the aid of the so-called minister, dragged the young woman to the river's banks. The girl was compelled before leaving home Sunday afternoon to don a very thin white dress, with low neck and short sleeves, and given only a flimsy shawl to keep out the cold blasts of winter.

When the party reached the river Rev. Mr. Jones took about three-quarters of an hour to preach a sermon and say prayers.

The little band was composed of the minister, Mrs. Sperry, Sr., Mrs. Sperry, Jr., and six converts to the Dowie faith, which is within two of the entire number of converts in Hartford.

Mrs. Sperry was immersed and kept in the water, according to the statement of eye-witnesses, for fully fifteen minutes, and when she was taken out she was unconscious. Then the ones who were to blame for this foolishness became frightened and picked up the almost lifeless form and carried it in their arms to Mrs. Sperry's home.

The young woman was laid on her bed and before night her babe was born. It was dead.

The mother next day had an acute attack of pneumonia.

CANCER CURED.

Mr. W. W. Prickett, Smithfield, Ill., writes, September 10, 1901: "I had been suffering several years with a cancer on my face, which gave me great annoyance and unbearable itching. I was using Ballard's Snow Lintment for a sore leg, and through an accident, I rubbed some of the lintment on the cancer, and as it gave me almost instant relief, I decided to continue to use the lintment on the cancer. In a short time the cancer came out, my face healed up and there is not the slightest scar left. I have implicit faith in the merits of this preparation, and it cannot be too highly recommended." 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

The Serpent Not Slimy.

There is a curious popular delusion which goes along with such phrases as "the trail of the serpent." The common belief is that a snake or a lizard is slimy, whereas a string of pearls or a diamond necklace would more fitly represent the cool, dry, and clean skin of these animals. A snake would leave a trail in dry sand, but would leave no mark on a human hand or a hard surface.—Boston Christian Register.

ANY WOMAN MAY BE CURED.

MRS. FRANCES KINGSLEY,
First Vice-President of the Historical Club, 544 Garfield Ave., Chicago, Ill., says

After doctoring for eleven months and taking forty-three bottles of medicine and finding no relief for leucorrhoea resulting from irritation of a fallen womb I took Wine of Cardui and fourteen bottles cured me. This seems strange but it is the simple truth. Wine of Cardui helped me from the time I began taking it and having heard it praised so highly by friends who had tried it I felt satisfied that it would help me, and it did. It cured me. Took every bit of ache, pain and headache, cramps and dragging down sensations away till I felt young, strong and happy once more. It is a wonderful medicine and a true friend to women. When I look back on the months of torture I had it seems like a hideous nightmare. Wine of Cardui will cure any woman I believe. I have more faith in it than all other medicines combined.

Frances Kingsley

Who would go on suffering female troubles after reading the earnest statement of this prominent woman? Are you suffering from leucorrhoea? Have you the irritation of a fallen or misplaced uterus? Do you have aches, pains or cramps in the abdomen? Have you "bearing down pains"? Do you feel as if you were never "young, strong and happy"? How can you refuse relief when you know these troubles are torturing you, are growing worse day after day? If you go to a physician after a local examination, he will probably tell you an operation is necessary. Mrs. Kingsley took Wine of Cardui and she was cured without an operation. And this is what you may do. Shooting pains, irregularity, inflammation and bearing down pains make thousands of women miserable. Why drag through life never enjoying anything? Wine of Cardui has made over 1,500,000 weak and suffering women well and strong. We ask you to go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui and begin to take it at once. Do that and the health Mrs. Kingsley writes about will soon be yours. If you think special directions are needed in your case, address, giving symptoms, Ladies' Advisory Department, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

NEW DEPARTMENT

Secy. Cortelyou Submits a Statement About it.

The Appropriation Required Will be Quite Large.

Washington, Feb. 25.—A scheme for the organization of the new department of commerce and labor has been laid before congress by Secretary Cortelyou, in the estimate transmitted to that body today through the secretary of the treasury. In addition to the twelve branches of the public service transferred to the new department from other departments, which have been appropriated for Secretary Cortelyou, asks for the appropriations for salaries aggregating $669,690. The salaries cover the secretary's office, the bureau of corporations and manufactures and subordinate divisions, as follows:

Secretary's office, 20 salaries, $38,020; under the chief clerk 71 salaries, $61,900; appointment division, 20 salaries, $26,160; division of mails and files, 21 salaries, $21,300; division of stationery, nine salaries, $12,360; library, 7 salaries, $8,340; office of solicitor, 11 salaries, $18,100; bureau of corporations, 116 salaries, $150,000; for compensation of special examiners in the field, $296,960; bureau of manufactures, 21 salaries, $30,980; in connection with the new duties imposed on the bureau of statistics, $5,670.

CURED CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months; the doctors stated he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup and it cured him. That was six years ago, and since then we always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds, it has no equal." 25c, 50c and $1 bottle.

WESLEY'S BIRTHDAY

Methodists in New York Are to Elaborately Celebrate.

President Roosevelt Is to be the Chief Speaker.

New York, Feb. 25.—Thursday will be a red letter day in the calendar of local Methodism. Preparations are now complete for the great mass meeting which will be held on the evening of the 26th at Carnegie hall, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, founder of the sect.

This meeting, which will be held under the auspices of the Metropolitan thank offering commission of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be of national significance. President Roosevelt will be the chief speaker of the evening, and from all sections of the country men and women representative of the great denomination will journey to this city to participate in the celebration.

Besides the president, the list of speakers include Rev. Dr. James B. Day, chancellor of Syracuse university, who will speak on "John Wesley's Gospel," and Bishop Edward G. Andrews, resident bishop of New York, whose theme will be "Then and Now—A. D. 1703 and A. D. 1903."

The chairman of the meeting will be Samuel W. Bowne, with whom the president will dine before the Carnegie hall meeting.

As the date of Wesley's birth was June 28, 1703, the demonstration planned for next week is a little early.

But in arranging the observation for the time the thank offering commission gave to the city where the first Methodist sermon preached on this continent was delivered, in 1766, and the first Methodist church built, two years later, the honor of having the first of a series of world wide observances. At the same time that his followers honor the great preacher they will celebrate a growth equalled by few modern denominations.

Monkeys Hard to Train.

To make a monkey into an actor is a difficult feat, because he is too intelligent to train into obedience. It is, indeed, a dictum with some showmen that the more intelligent an animal is the more difficult it is to train him to do tricks, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. This is illustrated in the case of the horse, which is a peculiarly stupid animal, and has always to be worked mechanically; and yet horses are exceedingly easy to train. A donkey, on the other hand, which is really more intelligent than a horse, is not easy to teach, because he always wants to exercise his own will.

Chicago Professor Announces Important Discovery.

Says St. Vitus' Dance and Other Nervous Disorders Can be Cured.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Dr. Jacques Loeb has discovered that muscular and nervous diseases, such as St. Vitus dance, paralysis agitans, locomotor ataxia and sleeplessness can be cured by administering calcium salts, that is, such salts as are found in well water and many foods.

Announcement of this discovery in scientific research by the former head of the department of physiology at the university of Chicago has just been made. In one of the decennial publications just turned out by the university of Chicago press, Dr. Loeb tells of his experiment on lower forms of life and the conclusions suggested in regard to human beings. The subject of his paper is "The Production and Suppression of Muscular Twitchings and Hypersensitiveness of the Skin."

In this article Dr. Loeb specifically avows a pathological object in the experiments on this subject—that is, an interest in the effect on diseases.

Simply stated the whole story is that the presence of the calcium salts in the muscles is what prevents their twitching; that practically all nervous diseases are caused by the absence of the calcium, and that, therefore, to restore normal conditions and effect a cure, the thing to do is to administer a dose of calcium salts.

Physicians have never found a cure for the nervous or muscular diseases. Dr. Loeb states this, in his general conclusions on the three parts of his investigations, which follows:

"The experiments mentioned in this paper were undertaken with two aims in view, a practical and a theoretical one. As far as the former is concerned, it follows, from our investigations, that abnormal muscular twitchings and contractions may be brought about in an organism by a reduction in the proportion of calcium, or magnesium, in the muscles."

WEAK AND LOW SPIRITED.

A Correspondent Thus Describes His Experience.

"I can strongly recommend Herbine as a medicine of remarkable efficacy for indigestion, loss of appetite, sour taste in the mouth, papitation, headache, drowsiness after meals with distressing mental depressions and low spirits. Herbine must be a unique preparation for cases such as mine, for a few doses entirely removed my complaint. I wonder at people going on suffering or spending their money on worthless things, when Herbine is procurable, and so cheap." 50c a bottle. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

OLD HABIT TOO STRONG.

Pent-Up Enthusiasm Had to Find an Outlet.

Congressman Jones of the state of Washington tells this "amen" story: A brilliant theological student had been invited to come and preach as a candidate. Brother Silas Smith was noted for his tendency to keep the audience awake by shouting "amen" about every so often. Some of the members thought that this might disconcert the preacher, so one of the members offered him a new pair of boots if he would refrain from shouting "amen" that day. Silas agreed. But toward the end of his discourse the student waxed a little too eloquent for Silas, who shouted: "Amen! Boots or no boots, amen!"

A Plague of Rats.

St. Petersburg is fighting a rat plague of tremendous proportions. For three days following, early trains of the suburban Newski steam street railway have been stopped by swarms of rats, wandering to the river for drink. When a grain elevator was opened the other day it was found that the rats had devoured 5,000 sacks of corn. The police are distributing rat poison to all responsible householders free of charge, and soldiers armed with sticks watch the road to the river where the rats get their morning tipples.

CURE CATARRH BY NATURE'S OWN METHOD — EVERY BREATH OF HYOMEI BRINGS RELIEF.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said that the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete outfit of Hyomei costs but one dollar and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and there is enough Hyomei for more than month's treatment of catarrh. If one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

The leading druggists of this city have sold hundreds of Hyomei outfits and the more they sell, the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.

Those who are subject to catarrh or catarrhal colds will do themselves an injustice if they do not purchase a Hyomei outfit at once, so as to be prepared for the sudden changes of the season.

Automobile Sea Scouts.

As military motor bicycles have already proved themselves to be of value in scouting it is probable that in nearly every civilized country they will be largely used in future land warfare. Why, if the fast land scout prove so useful, should not the navy adopt the same methods? A boat, sixty feet long, with two twenty-five horse power engines, built very light, to carry, say, four persons, and to be capable of considerable speed, would be a most useful addition to a battleship or a fleet. The ordinary torpedo boat is too long and draws too much water for scouting near shore or in shallow water, but a launch might be made to draw less than three feet of water and yet have a speed of upward of thirty knots. There would be no funnels or smoke to attract the notice of the enemy, and with underwear exhaust the boat might be made almost silent. If built low in the water or with the power of semi-submersion, it would be difficult for the enemy to observe, and still more difficult to hit. Probably such a craft would be more useful than anything yet invented in the way of a scout for sea purposes.—London Star.

His Awful Blunder.

The careless man perpetrated the most awful blunder in ginable last week. It is really not a subject for laughter, and yet some of the man's friends had to laugh when he discovered his mistake and they saw his rueful face. You see, the man was going to send a friend a bunch of roses as a Christmas greeting, and at the same time he ordered a wreath sent to the house of an acquaintance whose sister had died the night before.

The man is a sympathetic soul, and he was plunged in woe when he went to the florist's to leave his order because of this friend's distress, so just how he did it will never be known, but the card intended for the bunch of roses was placed on the wreath, and that meant for the wreath was placed on the roses, and the former went to the house of the dead marked "A Merry Christmas," and the latter went to the debutante marked "With deepest sympathy," a mix-up that was ridiculous, however little the subject calls for laughter, now, wasn't it?—Baltimore News.

The Oying Man's Joke.

The antiquary stood in the Union League, contemplating his hands behind his back the excellent portrait of Thaddeus Stevens. "Whenever I study this painting of my old friend," he said, "I am reminded of a jest that Stevens made when he was dying, to two of the attendants at the capitol at Washington. Up to almost the last Stevens insisted on participating in the sessions of Congress, and these two men carried him daily from his hotel in a great chair to his desk. He was worn down to skin and bone at this time; it was clear he was not much longer for this earth; but his two servitors were huge, lusty and young men. Hence I think that there was a good deal of delicate humor and pathos in the remark he made to them one day, as they were carrying him, as usual, over to the capitol. 'What will I do,' he said, 'for carriers—how will I get to my desk safely and comfortably—when you two giants are dead and gone.'"—Philadelphia Record.

THE WEATHER.

Increasing cloudiness tonight followed by rain or snow in the extreme western and southern portions. Thursday rain.

It is suggested that the quickest way to get at the root of the matter would be to try Governor Jeff Davis for lunacy.

It is not every clairvoyant who can read his own future. If he could, often doubtless he would get away in time to avoid his finish.

Senator Carmack made another speech in the senate yesterday roasting President Roosevelt, but at last accounts the government was still intact and the earth itself was moving along at its accustomed pace.

A circuit judge at Holly Springs, Miss., has created a sensation by instructing the grand jury to investigate all cases of progressive eulchre playing, and if possible find indictments. It is stated in the society news that if this is done it will find a number of church members in an unpleasant predicament on account of their innocent amusement.

General Booth in an address at Boston said there were 18,000 criminals in his ranks, and that if the rich did not produce the funds necessary to carry on his good work these criminals might be turned loose after being given the addresses of the rich. Gen. Booth is maybe only seeking some excuse to get rid of the 18,000 criminals, but as they have enjoyed the benign influences of his Salvation Army quite awhile they have doubtless become so good that the rich need not be afraid of them.

Congressman Chester Long of Kansas is in a predicament. He is a member of the present congress, a member of the next congress and a United States senator-elect, and he cannot give up any of the jobs. He wants to resign as a member of the forthcoming congress in order that the voters of his district might elect his successor, but the speaker could not accept it, as the resignation was for the next term, which has not begun. There has not been a similar case in congress since 1854.

A Nashville judge has just decided that a man can keep open a saloon on Sunday but one time, according to the construction of the law. He cannot be indicted, tried or fined but once for keeping open on Sunday, no matter how many separate cases may be made out against him. The case was the result of a saloonkeeper's being indicted twice for keeping his saloon open the same day. The court holds that keeping open is a continuous performance. We presume that on the same principle a man cannot be arrested and fined in Nashville except for one drunk on Sunday.

The distinguished gentlemen from Louisville who are coming to Paducah Saturday evening for the purpose of acquainting the people with the aims and efforts of the Kentucky Exhibit association, should be greeted by a large crowd. Mr. Ford, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, is a gentleman of refinement and prominence, and Mr. Dallam is a Paducah boy who is popular here even if he has lived in Louisville for the past several years. These gentlemen are giving their time and effort to the cause of a suitable representation of the state at the St. Louis exposition, made necessary by the failure of the state to make it. They should know.

This is a very body is hustling and swindlers perhaps. Time has not changed the great and celebrated truth that "the American people like to be humbugged," and the fool and his money even in this enlightened age, are soon parted. People are easily galled, and for the especial protection of the young and guileless, examples should be made of swindlers whenever there is opportunity. A rather serious lesson has been taught several young ladies now in the city whose great misfortune was being stage-struck. They and others should remember that the man who promises something for nothing, or a soft snap at reduced rates, is usually a grafter, and about the only soft snap he knows anything about is the one he has for his own use. The stage is doubtless very alluring to young men and women, but they should know that the profession is already overflowing, and those who are in need of members of the profession take people who are capable and seasoned and do not go around converting recruits into artists, except for the purpose of fleecing them.

ROBBERS WERE CLOSE

But They Failed to Get Any of the Cash at Benton Today.

Blew the Vault, But Failed to Get to the Cash Before They Had to Fly.

STOLE A HORSE AND BUGGY

An effort was made to rob the Bank of Benton at Benton, Marshall county, twenty-five miles from Paducah on the N. O. & St. L. railroad, about 2 o'clock this morning by unknown men.

They came into Benton, evidently, in a stolen buggy and horse which they picked up at Calvert City. After blowing the vault they learned that the charge had been insufficient to expose the money, and they had to fly to escape arrest.

They went north and at Elva stole a hansom, on which they escaped. Mr. James Karnes of Calvert City identified the stolen horse and buggy, which were found near the depot, as his own, taken from him last night.

Several suspicious characters had been seen about the city, but it is not known how many robbers there were nor where they went from here.

They also broke into the depot and stole a small amount of money. From here they went north. Bloodhounds will be secured and every effort made to apprehend them.

Retail Grocers to Meet in Regular Session Today.

Officers, Purchasing Agent and Others to Be Elected This Evening.

WAREHOUSE TO BE LOCATED

The Retail Grocers' association will hold an important meeting tonight and complete all plans and arrangements for practical operation of the new association.

The board of directors, officers, purchasing agent and other officers will be elected tonight, the warehouse selected, and many other details worked out. The headquarters of the association will be an important point to be considered and several excellent locations have been under advisement. The appointment of a committee on bylaws and constitution will be made tonight and the committee will begin immediately to prepare same. Mr. E. W. Bockmon said in regard to the association this morning:

"All our stock has been subscribed for and the retail merchants are jubilant over the prospects. T. H. is not a 'new wrinkle' we have adopted but has been tested and made practical in large as well as small cities. Where there is co-operation better circumstances exist, and in associating ourselves together we can eliminate impure foods, which have been sold here for some time, and benefit the consumer as well as the merchant in prices. We have received letters from manufacturing concerns all over the country who desire our trade and all are clamoring to serve us. We intend to better the conditions in the grocery business in Paducah by selling the best quality at the lowest prices. By consolidating our orders we get the goods at a great deal less expense, and can sell accordingly. We will accept no goods but the best and one of our chief aims is to secure the abolition of all impurities that we know are palmed off on grocers in this city."

the company and has never had any rehearsal or received any instruction. She was in the room at the time the trouble occurred Sunday night, and said that Perkins made some statements that she considered a reflection on herself and the other young ladies. She said that she had done nothing to deserve it. That the doctor often told her the girls in his company must be respectable and must have nothing to say to other men. She had been talking to someone in the hall, which caused him to censure her. She said she took out the warrant against the doctor on advice of young Stanley.

Miss Ethel Hubbard of Jackson, Tenn., was the next on the stand. She said she was a daughter of Dr. Hubbard, and was in charge of the cigar stand at the Gaston hotel in Memphis when she was introduced to the doctor and joined his company. She wanted a permanent position before she abandoned her position there and says she was promised a place in the company, with expenses paid, and signed a contract, but that since reading the contract carefully she had come to the conclusion that it was worthless. She gave him $25 as a deposit, she said, but that there had never been a rehearsal, and she had been given no part to learn. He told her that the part he was expecting for her had not arrived. They had all been at the hotel for a week and had received no instructions of any description.

She said that the language used on the night in question was obscene and insulting in some particulars, but could not detail it. She also intimated that the doctor had made improper propositions on other occasions.

Miss Maud Johnson had a similar story to tell. She joined the company in Memphis because she wanted to go on the stage. She was to get $25 and expenses while on the road, but they had never had a rehearsal of any sort and had been given no parts to learn.

Upon the conclusion of the testimony of Miss Johnson, who corroborated the other young ladies, Mr. Zell, a partner of Perkins, was introduced for the defense, the prisoner declining to testify. He said that he heard nothing insulting and did not hear Perkins abuse his wife.

Mrs. Perkins, a pretty little blonde, was introduced, but said that what occurred between herself and husband was a family affair and declined to tell any more.

It is understood that Perkins has several names and received mail under different names while in Memphis. His wife, it is said, was formerly Miss Mamie Edwards of Little Rock, and they were married in the latter place in January.

The case was not argued when the evidence was finished today and Perkins was promptly fined $100 and costs on the one charge tried. The other case against him, charging him with taking undue liberties with Miss Lynch, was postponed until this afternoon.

Young Stanley claims that when he left Memphis Miss Lynch was left in his care by her people, and he is trying to have her people come and prosecute Dr. Perkins on a more serious charge.

Young Leithleiser states that the name Perkins went under in Little Rock was Wm. Shelton, and that probably no one knows his real name.

Before the announcement of the judgment, while the attorneys were conferring together, Judge Sanders had a little fun by suggesting that as the poor unfortunate young ladies had been duped and were here without money a collection be taken up to pay their way back home. He said Chief Collins would take up a collection from the large crowd present.

Deputy Jailor Frank Smedley agreed to bar the door and keep them all in, but about this time the fun was stopped by the return of the attorneys.

The wife of the prisoner was a very offensive witness in some of her evidence and claimed that she and the doctor were married in June last, while others claim it was in January. She would tell very little and evidently the court did not believe what she did tell.

It is probable that the troubles of the doctor are not near over. It is understood a warrant will be taken out by Inspector Jarvis against him for practicing without a license also, and other charges may develop before he is in a position to shake the dust of Paducah from his feet. He may be wanted in other places, but it is not known for certain yet.

The young ladies have made no arrangements to return home. They can easily see that they have been duped, and it is understood are without money.

The second case on the docket against Perkins was called this afternoon, and as Judge Sanders had heard the first case, he thought it best not to hear the second and Judge W. A. Berry was sworn in as special judge to try it, and the evidence was begun. In this warrant he is charged with a breach of the peace committed by taking undue liberties with Miss Lynch, the 14 year old girl.

The case was still on trial at press time, the young lady swearing that about the only theatrical instruction Dr. Perkins ever attempted to give her was in a supposed love scene, when she was required to make desperate love to him and she thought he squeezed her too hard. The case will probably last some time.

SHOT BY ACCIDENT

Postmaster of Folsomdale, Is the Victim.

Owen Milstead Claims He Took the Graves County Man for a Prowler.

HIS INJURIES ARE SERIOUS

William Garton, postmaster at Folsomdale, Graves county, was shot and seriously wounded last night by Owen Milstead who had mistaken him for a prowler about his house near Twelfth and Trimble streets.

Garton is an old friend of the family and had met Mrs. Milstead and sister, Miss Lizzie Ingram, on Broadway last night and accompanied them home. They arrived at her residence, on Trimble street, and Garton here left them. On his return he stopped and looked back to see that the ladies had gotten safely into the house when some one began to fire a revolver at him.

The shots came from the side yard and Garton thinking the ladies had been waylaid procured a pistol at the saloon corner Twelfth and Trimble, and returned to investigate. He was accompanied by a companion and when Milstead's house was reached, stopped and remained undecided whether to go in or remain out. A shot was again fired from the side yard the ball piercing Garton's side and inflicting a serious wound. The wounded man was carried to the corner saloon and Drs. Hoyer and Robertson summoned to dress the wound. They located the bullet near the backbone, and pronounce it serious but not necessarily fatal.

Milstead was arrested and admitted doing the shooting but said he did it under the impression that Garton was a prowler. He acknowledges Garton a friend of the family and says he regrets the matter very greatly. Milstead claims that some one had entered the yard and knocked on the window and that he had secured the revolver and gone out to investigate when he saw the two men and fired. Garton was better this morning. He is a prominent merchant at Folsomdale and is well known by many merchants here.

It is believed he will recover. Milstead was warranted for malicious shooting and the case set for tomorrow.

TO PAY DOCTORS' BILLS FOR VETERANS

(Washington Telegram to the Brooklyn Eagle)

A movement is on foot to have congress pass a bill to pay the doctors' bills incurred by the Spanish war veterans as a result of their services in Cuba. A measure is now pending in the senate to pay the medical expenses of sick officers and enlisted men of the army while absent from duty with leave or on furlough.

Many of the men who served in the Spanish war were compelled to pay out large sums for doctors' bills. The hospital facilities were not well organized and officers frequently urged their men to go home for treatment. Again men who went home on furlough developed fever from the germs which they contracted in camps, and fell into long spells of sickness. It is proposed to reimburse those who had to pay out money for these causes.

He Was Satisfied. A negro evangelist in the west has proved to his own satisfaction that Adam, Isalah, Jeremiah, David, Solomon and even Christ were colored men.

Paducah Stands a Good Show of Securing it, He Says in a Letter.

SOUNDS RATHER "FISHY"

Mr. James E. Robertson, formerly of the News, has received the following rather remarkable letter, which seems to be one similar to many sent to various parts of the country, and which is self-explanatory:

Philanthropy, Feb. 20.

James E. Robertson, Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir:—I am offering a reward in a handsome club building to the town or city in the United States that will organize a local club named after the International Political Specialists' School and the World's Diathetic Institute, the two world philanthropic institutions to be erected and supported by an association of philanthropists from different parts of the world, with the least hesitancy. Or, in other words, I propose to buy the most suitable lot for the purpose I can get and erect thereon the prettiest club building in the world and present it to the club in the town or city in the United States that will organize an International Political Specialists' School and the World's Diathetic Institute club and ask the least questions about it before organizing.

The object of the Association in making this offer is this: The Association intends to expend a billion dollars, first and last, on and through the International Political Specialists' School and the World's Diathetic Institute in the effort to ennoble and enlighten mankind, and, as the Association knows, as it does, that it is earnest and sincere in its work for the good of humanity, it offers to erect and present the building to the town or city that evinces the least diffidence and, scepticism, in order to encourage confidence on the part of the people in the righteousness of its (the Association's) purpose, inasmuch as it is going to ask every village, town and city in the world to organize a local club bearing the names of these institutions anyhow. The Association will simply betoken its appreciation of the town or city that places confidence in it the quickest by presenting the town with a handsome and comfortable home for her club bearing the names of the institutions in and through which it (the Association) proposes to do its work for the betterment of human conditions.

Paducah has as good a chance as any place in the country to get this present. See the mayor and some leading professional and business men about it.

Address me at Denton, Texas.
Yours,
A. G. LEE.

Two Very Old Ones

(From the Indianapolis News.)

The oldest man in the world is Manuel del Valle of Menlo Park, a suburb of San Francisco, Cal. Signor del Valle is more than 157 years old. He is, as his name indicates, of Spanish extraction. He was born in Zacatecas, Mexico, November 24, 1745. He is without any doubt, according to his credentials, the oldest man in the world today, and he is probably the only person whose age is greatly in advance of 100 years who can show apparently satisfactory proofs of the exact date of his birth.

(St. Petersburg Cablegram to the New York Sun.)

Russian newspapers say that a man in the hospital at Tomsk is 200 years old. They say this statement is supported by documents. The man has been a widower for 123 years.

He had a son, who died in 1824, aged 90 years. He remembers seeing Peter the Great. He is bedridden, but mentally sound.

Animals Eat Poisonous Weeds.

Not even does the shrewd instinct of animals always prevent them from eating food which is injurious. In Montana from 50,000 to 100,000 cattle per annum are poisoned each year and die as the result of eating too poisonous weeds—wild larkspur and poison camass—while great losses are sustained each year in the Southwest country from stock eating the locoweed.

PLAINTIFF WON—Judge Lightfoot, in the county court, has rendered a judgment for $147.70 against F. N. Gardner in favor of the Randolph-Pulitzer company, which sued to recover the value of a music box which the defendant claimed was not up to contract, and would not pay for.

FOR NEW ROADS—County Judge R. T. Lightfoot has made an order in county court requiring a number of persons to move and set back their fences in order that the new roads may be built, one from Husbands to the Mayfield road and another from the Blandville road across to the Hinkleville road.

LIGHT COMMITTEE MET—The light committee of the general council met last night at the city hall and after a discussion of the subject decided to have Superintendent Harry Wallace make out a list of what is necessary to place the light system in the proper condition, and then send the list away to some supply house and secure prices. The committee will present its report at the next regular meeting.

IKE COHEN, at 106 South Second street, Paducah's only pawnbroker, has paid $700 this day for license as pawnbroker. All citizens including saloonkeepers and banks are warned and cautioned not to lend money on collateral of personal property, as the law says that is doing a pawn business, and they are liable to a fine, and for which they will be prosecuted by law. Respectfully,
Ike Cohen, the Pawnbroker, opposite the market house.

MEDICAL SOCIETY.

INTERESTING MEETING OF THE DOCTORS FOR THIS EVENING.

The McCracken County Medical and Surgical society will meet tonight with Dr. J. T. Reddick and the committee appointed to look after the matter of raising funds for the new charity hospital will make a full report.

This matter was referred to the committee some time ago with instructions to look into the legality of issuing bonds without an election by the people. It is understood that the attorneys employed by the doctors will report that the bonds cannot be issued unless the people have voted them and that no vote can be taken except at an election held with the regular elections. The doctors hoped that this obstacle might be overcome, but it seems that there is no way around the matter and that the hospital will not be built any way soon unless funds are raised in other ways.

THE POSTMASTER

SHOOK OFF COFFEE AND GOT WELL.

It's so easy to shake off coffee and coffee diseases when well made Postum Cereal Coffee is served in its place that it doesn't take long to tell the tale.

The postmaster of a flourishing town in Dinwiddie county, Va., writes, "Up to a short time ago coffee had me a great sufferer from constipation, nervousness and indigestion. About the middle of last July I quit coffee and began using Postum and ever since I have been improving. My troubles have now quite disappeared."

"I attribute my recovery to Postum and have induced several of my friends to try it. You are at liberty to use this. Name given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich."

There is a reason. Coffee is a definite poison to many persons and disease sets in if the use of even one cup a day is continued.

When the poison is withdrawn and a pure food beverage like Postum Food Coffee used the return to health is natural and prompt if the disease is not too advanced, and many, very many old chronic diseases disappear when the coffee is abandoned and Postum used in its stead. Many of these old diseases are hidden by nervous disorders, that is coffee keeps the nerves poisoned and that condition creates and holds disease in some organ of the body. Take away the cause and give a true, natural nerve re-builder like Postum and the change is often miraculous.

Theatrical Notes.

Harriet Ford and E. F. Boddington's dramatization of "Audrey," which lately achieved a great success at the Madison Square theater, New York, will be presented at The Kentucky on Monday night. Miss Robson in the title role of this drama has added a new success to her long list of triumphs. In this particularly fine company are very many notable players, including George Woodward, Ada Dwyer, Frederic Perry, Forrest Robinson, Selene Johnson, James O'Neil, Jr., and Frank Lamb Liebler & Co. have provided a production of exceeding beauty and artistic worth. "What is worth doing, is worth doing well," seems to be the motto of this great theatrical firm. Seats go on sale Saturday for Audrey.

The Elmira Telegram, speaking of Adelaide Thurston, who will appear at The Kentucky Monday night, March 2, is quoted as follows: "The stage does not contain a more lovable character or a more gifted ingenue than sweet little Adelaide Thurston. Those who witnessed Miss Thurston's superb portrayal and they numbered nearly 2,000 people at both performances, were not only attracted to her by her admirable acting, but her sweet unaffected charm of manner as well." Seats go on sale Monday for this performance.

Another large and well pleased crowd was at The Kentucky last night to witness "Graustark," and the company did better work than the night before, when one of the company was ill. The scenery was very elaborate and the work fine. The specialties were new and pleasing, and gave excellent satisfaction. Tonight the sale indicates another large audience to see "A Man From the South." The people never received a better show for the money and have been quick to see it.

tain Ed Howard, will arrive in Paducah tonight at 7:05 o'clock to look after the marine ways here.

The friends of Mr. E. O. Yancey, who recently moved to Minneapolis to accept a position with the M. A. Gedney Pickling Co., will be pleased to know that he and his family are well satisfied with their new home. In a letter to The Sun Mr. Yancey says it has been very cold there, the thermometer going to 30 below zero, but that it is not disagreeable. Mr. Yancey is doing well with his new house, having sold in one day recently two cars and 180 barrels of vinegar.

"Oh, Tom," cried Kathryn Hill as she unceremoniously entered Tom Cate's studio with the air of one always certain of a welcome, "I've found just the word I wanted for my story. You know that hateful Miss Squills had 'dynamophosphatopallinkaster' in—"

"Merciful heavens, Kit!" exclaimed Tom in mock horror. "Come up early next Sunday morning and bring the rest of it with you. Besides, can't you see I am terribly busy this morning?" "Pot boiler, isn't it?" she asked as she glanced carelessly at the sketch, and as Tom nodded, his mouth being occupied with various drawing implements, she continued lightly: "Oh, bother! Let it wait, Tommo, and listen to me."

"No, Kitty, dear," he made answer solemnly. "It is an unhappy fact that a poor artist's masterpiece may wait indefinitely, while his pot boilers must be finished at a specified time; but you may talk to me just the same, only, please, please do not leave any more such words lying around loose for me to become entangled in."

"Now, Tom, do not become desperate, will you, when I tell you I have another word about twice as long? You see, as I was trying to tell you, that horrid Miss Squills used the word 'dyn'—"

"Stop!" commanded Tom, with a look of horror and a wave of his unoccupied arm.

"That little word, Tommo, dear, is the name of an instrument used for the breaking of falsely united fractures, and Miss Squills worked it into her story of 'A Surgeon's Love.' Gus Burleigh spoke in such praises of her apparent knowledge, all through her use of that word, that I became a tiny, wee bit jealous, so I—"

"Gus Burleigh!" sneered Tom. "What does he—"

"I have the floor, sir," interposed Kitty. "You're out of order. Allow me to continue, if you please. I have a story mapped out that will positively put hers to shame."

"Make it look like this!" "Hush, Tommo, don't use that dreadful slang phrase. I shall call my story 'The Dentist's Daughter,' and the new word I have just learned and intend to use is 'methylbenzoinethoxyethyltetrahydropridylacetoxyethylate' Now, isn't that a—"

"Corker!" ejaculated Tom. "Well, yes, it is all that," admitted Kitty, "and don't you think Gus will consider me marvelously learned when he sees that?"

"If he ever tries to pronounce it, you will be obliged to come out in black for the poor boy, but does it—er—mean anything in particular?"

"Certainly it does, goose! It is chemical for cocaine."

Tom worked in silence a few moments before he said: "Er—Kit, I suppose our long standing and successful platonic friendship will soon be a thing of the past, eh?"

"Not necessarily, Tommo, dear. I'm sure Gus will be sensible," was her sober reply.

"It will be an innovation for him, then," Tom could not refrain from saying with ill concealed savageness. "May I inquire when the momentous event will take place?"

"If you think you should know, I have promised to give him a definite answer tonight," she confessed.

"Tonight?" he echoed. "What a coincidence! To tell you the truth, as is due you, Kit, I intend to throw myself at the feet of Clara Rogerly tonight. Shake!" He put out his ink stained hand and clasped hers, but neither cared to look each other in the eye.

"Too bad we were never suited for each other, now, wasn't it, Kitty?" he asked, with a forced laugh, after a depressing silence.

"That is not for me to say, sir," she replied with assumed dignity, "but be careful, Tom, dear, remember we are such an excellent example of true platonic friendship to all our friends and acquaintances."

"To be sure," he hastened to affirm. "And, say, Kit, this—this—our proposed step will never change all that, will it?"

"Never, Tommo, never!" she answered him, whereupon they shook hands, and Tom procured a bottle of ale from his icebox, used in the concoction of rarebits. Of this they drank twice, once for her "intended," and again for his "intended," as Tom gravely worded it.

While he was replacing the bottle and glasses Kathryn leaned over the easel to examine Tom's "pot boiler." In so doing she tipped over a vase, catching it before it fell, but scratching her wrist upon one of the metal tipped arrows it contained.

It was but a mere scratch, yet it pleased her fancy to tease him by pretending serious injury.

"Oh, Tommo, Tommo," she cried, "see how your ugly old arrows have scratched me!" And she held up her plump wrist that he might see the little red scratch upon which a few red drops were slowly appearing.

Tom turned white as the lace encircling her wounded wrist as his glance took in what had happened. He sprang and picked her up in his arms, placing her upon a couch, from which he brushed the accumulation of books, pipes and tobacco jars with a sweep of his arm.

"My God, Kit!" he cried. "Those were poisoned arrows; some that were sent on from the accursed Philippines!"

Oh, Kittle," he groaned as he knelt beside the couch and clasped her in his arms, "what shall I do?"

She became white as Tom as she realized what had happened, yet she smiled.

"You might try a doctor," she suggested, seeing he was too wild to act.

Tom heard her murmur something about "doctor" and made a dash for the telephone. It seemed ages before central connected him with a physician. After telling the doctor to come as quick as God would let him he returned to Kit, who was lying white and still, with closed eyes.

Tom placed the wounded wrist to his lips and endeavored to draw out the poison from the scratch. Kathryn opened her eyes.

"Tommo, dear," she whispered. "Kittle, oh, my darling, tell me, do you feel better? Oh, what a fool I have been—what a blind fool! It is you, only you, whom I love!" cried Tom, with deep emotion.

Her disengaged arm went around his neck. "You were not alone, Tommo, dear," she said. "I have been another fool. And now, oh, Tom, is it too late?"

Just then the doctor arrived. Tom told him in a few words what had occurred.

The doctor examined the arrows and commenced to laugh heartily.

"Poisoned fiddiesticks!" he ejaculated. "Why, these things are made right here in town, just to sell!"

"What!" shrieked Kathryn as she landed upon her feet with one bound.

"Thank God!" murmured Tom as he sank into a chair.

The doctor dabbed a little colloidion upon the scratched wrist and left the room, laughing.

Tom sat staring at Kathryn as she wound her handkerchief about her wrist. His gaze was so steady she blushed and turned away.

"Kittle," he said entreatingly, "did you mean what you said?"

"What did I say?" she asked in a low voice without looking at him.

"You know what I mean, Kittle. Do you yet think we have been fools? I do!" he said eagerly.

"Thanks," she said, with a poorly assumed dignity.

"Oh, Kit, Kit," he said as he went to her, "won't you say 'No' to Gus tonight?"

"If you will stay away from Clara's," she whispered.

"This will be an awful blow to platonic friendship as well as to some people whom we knew," said Tom as he handed Kathryn into a carriage half an hour later.

Attorney John G. Miller went to Benton this morning on business.

RHEUMATISM

ACUTE AND CHRONIC, MUSCULAR, MERCURIAL, ARTICULAR AND INFLAMMATORY.

Some people have been suffering from Rheumatism so long that they can scarcely remember the time when they were entirely free from an ache or pain, and have long since forgotten the joys of a painless existence. They are at the mercy of every ill wind, and their misery is aggravated by exposure to cold or sudden changes in the temperature. They become walking barometers and most accurate in weather predictions, the increasing pains in muscles and joints foretelling the approaching storm or the coming of bad weather. It is from these constant sufferers that the great army of rheumatic cripples is recruited. Their bodies are worn out by the incessant pains and that they are at last compelled to give up or hobble about on crutches.

Nobody ever outlived Rheumatism; the disease never loosens its grip or leaves of its own accord, but must be driven out by intelligent and persistent treatment through the blood, for Rheumatism of every variety and form is caused by an over acid condition of the blood, and the deposit in muscles, joints and nerves of corrosive poisons and gritty particles, and it is these irritating substances that produce the inflammation, swelling and pains, which last as long as the blood remains in this sour and acid state.

To cure Rheumatism permanently the blood must be purified and invigorated, and no other remedy does this so well or so promptly as S. S. S. It refreshes and restores to the thin acid blood its nourishing and health-sustaining properties. And when strong, rich blood is again circulating through the body the acid poisons and irritating matter are washed out of the muscles and joints, and the pains at once cease and Rheumatism is a thing of the past. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine and does not derange the stomach like the strong mineral remedies, but builds up the general health, increases the appetite and tones up the digestion.

Through our Medical Department the pain-racked, despondent Rheumatic sufferer will receive helpful advice from Physicians of experience and skill without charge. Write us fully about your case.

The REFORMER

By CHARLES M. SHELTON,

"This case will come in Judge Chambers' court?"

The assistant looked up and paused in his writing.

The city attorney eyed Gordon again.

"Judge Chambers has jurisdiction in the Waterside district. It has been customary, however, to follow the precedent established by the new building act of '07 and call these cases in the district court."

"Jury case?"

"Yes."

"Am I right in saying that the complaining witness in cases of violation of city ordinances has the right to appear and cause the party complained of to appear in the police court that has jurisdiction in civil cases over the district in which the violation occurs?"

"That is the law." The city attorney slowly and seemingly with reluctance spoke.

Gordon went one step further. "Then this warrant will cite Randall to appear before Judge Chambers. If cases that come under the provisions of the building act of 1897 are appealed from the police court of Judge Chambers, do they go to the court of appeals or the court of special pleas?"

The city attorney hesitated.

"The court of appeals. There is no choice in the matter."

Gordon was silent. The city attorney eyed him again with interest.

"Are you a lawyer, young man?"

"No."

"Do you know Tommy Randall intimately?"

"No. Do you?"

The city attorney evaded the question.

"He's a bright one, Tommy is; very bright. Very bright, don't you think?"

"Will this warrant be served at once?" Gordon asked, in his turn ignoring a question.

The attorney placed the warrant in the hands of an officer, with instructions to serve it on Tommy Randall at once, and as he gave the order it seemed to Gordon that everybody in the office, from the city attorney down to the policeman, eyed him with a sort of pitying contempt.

He walked out of the building boiling with wrath at the insolent attitude of every person in the city administration with whom he had come in contact during that week's experience.

"But Chambers seems to be unpopular around here," he said to Ford.

"That's hopeful for us, isn't it?"

"How unpopular?"

"Didn't you notice the city attorney's hesitation when Chambers' name was mentioned? And while you were talking I overheard a little talk between two men at the other end of the office. Chambers' name occurred several times, and it was never spoken of in any complimentary terms. If he is unpopular with the city administration, isn't that a good sign for us?"

"Yes. It's a glimmer of hope, but only a glimmer in this awful municipal darkness. We'll follow it, though, and hope for the best."

Gordon was not present when the officer served the warrant on Tommy, but he learned afterward that the two regarded the matter as a good joke and adjourned to the nearest saloon to have a drink over it together. When next morning Gordon appeared with Ford in Chambers' court in response to the warrant, which set 9 o'clock as the time, Tommy was there in good spirits and nodded familiarly to Gordon as he came in.

When the case was called, the three went forward and Gordon noted with deep interest the man who presided and of whom Mrs. Penrose had said, "He does not fear man or devil."

He was almost youthful in appearance. His smooth face had a delicate, scholarly look that a pair of gold bowed spectacles emphasized. He seemed strangely out of place in that police court. When he spoke, it was in a voice so soft and refined that Gordon was disappointed. His heart sank and at once the glimmer of hope he had allowed his heart to entertain flickered and went out.

"Who are the prosecuting witnesses in this case?" Chambers said, and Gordon and Ford stepped up. Gordon made his statement, and the judge eyed him through his spectacles. Then he turned to Tommy Randall.

"Have you any defense, Mr. Randall?"

"I plead not guilty. My attorney will take the case," said Tommy, with a smile.

Then, to John Gordon's surprise, a man got up from the front bench and held a bundle of papers on the rail in front of the judge.

"May it please your honor," he said, "this case is purely spite work. My client has gained possession by purchase of a tract of land that this man Gordon and his companions have been trying to buy for their own uses. They are now trying to stop the building of a model tenement by my client by swearing out this warrant, charging him with violation of a city ordinance in regard to the space required at the rear of a building lot. We don't deny the ordinance. It explicitly states that if the building is four stories high there shall be fifteen feet between the rear end of the structure and the end of the lot. But may it please your honor, my client has not violated this ordinance. The diagram here will show that my client has left the required space provided for by the law."

The lawyer unfolded a blue print and spread it out. Gordon looked at Tommy Randall. There was a smile of satisfaction on his face.

"You may see, your honor, for yourself. This plot is the city engineer's. The measurements from Bowen street south on lot are ninety-eight feet in full. My client's building, as seen by this contractor's figure and diagram," he opened another paper, "is exactly eighty-three feet, which is just what the law calls for."

"Will the city engineer certify to this statement?" The judge's voice seemed softer and more refined than ever.

"He will if necessary."

"Is he present?"

"We did not think it necessary, your honor. I think he is out of the city at present. But your honor can see that the print is his own official measurements. My client asks that this case be dismissed as malicious persecution."

"What have you to say, Mr. Gordon?" The judge turned his spectacled eyes toward him.

"I say he lies," replied Gordon promptly.

"Have you any proofs?" The voice seemed sharper, and the figure straightened up perceptibly.

Gordon hesitated. He began to see through Tommy Randall's scheme. It was not like Tommy Randall to run such a risk, but his whole political life had been such a mesh of lies and deliberate dishonesty that it was not beyond the region of probability for him to resort to a very dangerous and desperate trick to clear himself. Gordon had carefully measured the foundation walls of the double decker and knew that by his measurement they covered the entire lot, yet he had nothing to prove that fact except his own statement.

"Have you any proof that this statement of Mr. Randall's is a falsehood?"

The voice came in an odd tone of sharpness.

"Nothing but my own word," Gordon answered quietly.

"Have you the measurements you made with you?"

Gordon produced a paper with a rough diagram marked on it showing the distance from the front of Bowen street to the end of the lot to be ninety-eight feet and the foundation walls of the building to measure the same distance.

"You've nothing more than this?" the judge asked. His voice was again soft and his manner meditative.

"Nothing more," John Gordon hesitated. "Miss Andrews was with me and Mr. Ford when we took the measurements. She could verify their accuracy."

"Is she here?"

"No, but she could be summoned."

"It isn't necessary. I'll go down there myself and make the measurements. It is possible some mistake has been made by one side or the other. Gentlemen, I desire your attendance while the court adjourns to Bowen street."

If a bomb had exploded in the face of Tommy Randall and his lawyer, they could not have been more thoroughly dumfounded. The lawyer hastily whispered to his client. Tommy smiled in a ghastly manner.

"It is possible, of course, your honor, that the city engineer has made a mistake in his figures. Mistakes are possible."

The little company rose to greet him.

able in surveys and measurements, as can be easily shown by reference to official records."

Justice Chambers made no reply. Probably a more speechless group of men never traveled in the electric cars together than that one which made the trip from the police judge's court, No. 9, to the Waterside district.

When Bowen street was reached, the five men walked over to the site of Tommy's double decker.

Judge Julius Chambers secured a mason's measuring line from one of what grimly to his

"I suppose you must me to measure correctly?"

Tommy murmured something. So did the attorney. It may be remarked in passing that it was not exactly a prayer that either man uttered.

Calling one of the masons to help, Judge Chambers measured off the foundation walls. Then he put down some figures on a card. Then he straightened up and said in a peculiarly soft voice:

"I get your measurements, Mr. Gordon, just ninety-eight feet. Court is adjourned to the station, and I desire the attendance of all the parties in the case."

Not a word was said by any one on the way back. Gordon was singing in his soul a song of hope. Here was a Daniel come to judgment. We never before in the history of that city had a public judge or any other ever done a thing like this? The spectacled, soft voiced young man suddenly loomed up before Gordon as a most imposing figure.

Back in court again, Judge Julius Chambers, relieving the assistant judge who had taken his place in his absence, confronted the parties in the case. His voice was ringing now; no softness or meditation in his manner.

"Tommy Randall, this court finds you guilty of the charge named in the warrant, and I fine you the maximum penalty, which is a fine of $300, with an added sentence of sixty days in jail, unless the building is changed in its construction within thirty days to conform to existing ordinances. I may add that while it is possible the city engineer may have made a mistake in his figures, it is my deliberate conviction that a conspiracy of a grave character has been entered into here by you, Mr. Randall, to deceive the court, and if such conspiracy can be shown to exist, as I shall do my utmost to prove, it will be a penitentiary case for both you and your attorney. Call the next case."

Tommy Randall's attorney had a face the color of dirty putty. Tommy himself glared at the judge and then at Gordon. He finally, with a great effort, pulled himself together and went out with his lawyer after the latter had gone through the regular formality of appealing the case to the court of appeals.

All the way to Hope House Gordon and Ford felt like executing a dance of some kind in the car. Once in the familiar library, they related the whole affair to Miss Andrews and the delighted settlement workers.

"This means the beginning of the end for Tommy Randall," said Ford. Miss Andrews shook her head.

"Tommy appealed the case. He will get out there. Remember he has never yet been convicted. Today's experience was only a scratch to him. He has not yet been seriously hurt. You do not know him as I do."

"But Chambers does not intend to let the other matter rest. It was a plain case of conspiracy and deliberate effort to deceive the court."

Miss Andrews shook her head again. "Tommy is an old fox. He made a mistake in not measuring Judge Chambers' right. But now that he knows him he will be cautious. I confess I have very little hope of his ultimate conviction."

"But he will have to change the building, won't he?" one of the young women asked.

"It's my opinion the masons will be at work tomorrow just the same, and Neither said a word.

no change will be made. My dear, you do not know Tommy Randall nor appreciate his power. I do, to my cost."

In the morning Gordon and Miss Andrews went over to the site of the tenement, accompanied by Ford, Miss Hammond and nearly all the workers.

The masons had begun their day's work. In answer to questions they said they had received no orders to change anything.

"It's easy to say, I told you so!" Miss Andrews calmly spoke as the little company slowly went back to the house. "Of course, pending the decision of the case in the court of appeals, Tommy will go on with the building, because he feels sure the decision there will reverse Chambers' decision."

"Then I don't see as we can do anything," said Gordon dejectedly.

"Yes, you've done something to get Tommy Randall convicted in any court at all."

"But I don't see that the conviction hurts him any. He ought to be in jail. Instead of that, he's going right on with his lawlessness just the same as if he hadn't been found guilty at all," said one of the young women.

Gordon looked at Miss Andrews. She smiled sadly.

"Yes," she replied in answer to his question, "unless Judge Julius Chambers than this I anticipate nothing except endless delay of the case in the court of appeals. There is a case there now that was appealed by Tommy three years ago. It is a case of law's delay, and we seem powerless to do anything."

"Somehow I have hope in Chambers. Did you see the account in the Index this morning? That sounded like him."

"I saw that," Ford spoke up brightly. "It gave Tommy a great roast, I tell you."

The article referred to in the morning Index was a conspicuous column account of the conviction of Tommy Randall in public court on a charge sworn out by the Hope House people. It was a scathing article, written by some one who had dipped his pen in something more than a hired reporter's ink bottle. There was a scorching vigor to it that drove the fact deep home to the reader that Tommy Randall was murdering little children in Ward 18 by his construction contrary to law of tenements like the one that made possible the recent tenement house tragedy. The article concluded with these words:

Will the people endure this sort of thing much longer? Tommy Randall is not an abstraction. He is 200 pounds of coarse flesh and bad blood, which spits on the law and says to the people, "You mind your own business." For thirty years Tommy Randall has ruled Waterside district like a tyrant. He has no office in the service of the people. He works at no trade. He is not elected to any position in the city. Yet he has grown rich from his blackmail of saloons, gambling dens, houses of vice and business firms in the district. His trade is in flesh and blood. No slave driver ever employed more artful means to trap his victims or more brutality in riveting on their manacles, and the horror of the whole affair is intensified by the fact that this creature who is after all the tool of the machine that created him has actually persuaded the miserable wretches who nourish him that he is their best friend. There will be no release from this slavery until the machine that made Tommy Randall what he is has been broken in pieces by the people so that it can neither turn out any more product like him or keep in power what has already been brought into existence. We say, Smash the machine. The people are able to do it. Will they do it?

The Review also contained a good account of Tommy's case in the police court and in addition cited in full the blue print incident and boldly denounced the lawyer and the boss for attempt at conspiracy to deceive the court. Three other papers had more or less extended notice of the event, and all of them were unfavorable to Tommy. This was the more significant as two of the papers had been for the administration.

"There's hope here," Miss Andrews said that evening as the little settlement family was gathered in the family library and the accounts in the different papers were being reviewed. "Maybe this is the first murmuring of the people. God grant!"

The bell rang, and a visitor was announced.

Mr. Julius Chambers came in, and the little company around the table rose to greet him. The slight, pale faced figure with the gold rimmed spectacles was at that moment the most interesting personality, next to their own head, in all the city. "I've had in mind to come here for some time," he said to Miss Andrews when they were all seated again. "I want to know you and your work at first hand. Unless I am mistaken the storm center of the next campaign will be somewhere in this vicinity."

"Will you be anywhere near the center of that center?" asked Gordon, leaning over and looking at Chambers intently.

"By the grace of God, Mr. Gordon, I want to be as near the center of it as I can get, and nothing would please me more than to have your company."

Gordon tingled all over. He arose and put out his hand. The judge took it. Neither said a word, but from that minute the two men were knit to each other.

They sat late that night around the library table, the most enthusiastic, interested and in some ways the most unselfish group of men and women in that city. Gordon and Chambers laid out a plan of campaign. It included the use of every moral and Christian force in the city. And the message they were to bring to the people was the message of murdered childhood, the double decker for a background, the political boss a necessary result of politics that lived on its spoils and cared no more for humanity's loss and ruin than any machine cares for the dust that whirls through its mechanism, to be blown out over the world or trod under foot to rise and be swept again into the rush of the wheels that with metallic heartlessness grind on, doing the will of their maker, but caring for no man's soul.

It seemed to them all during the weeks that followed that the city was awakening to some stern reality of its moral obligations. As the young judge had said that night when he appeared at Hope House, "The hour of the people is at hand." He himself, sometimes alone, oftener with Gordon or Falmouth, night after night addressed great mass meetings held under the direction of church or temperance or municipal reform bodies. Falmouth and a score of other ministers organized the young people into campaign material. The pulpit began to speak out. The papers contained columns of very free advertising of Tommy Randall and his methods. Chambers' voice spoke through an astonishing number of editorials and other articles, exposing long standing cases of awful incompetency and fraud in the city government. The storm of the people's fury rose and grew with every night's gathering, and the storm center was literally the Waterside district.

The steamer Belmont a few days ago brought a cargo of corn to Terre Haute and tied up to unload. Shore ice closed in around the boat, and when the water began to recede the boat could not be freed quickly enough to avoid stranding. The Belmont is resting on the banks of the Wabash.

The long standing river record made by the steamer Robert Lee in the memorable race with the Natchez between New Orleans and Natchez, Miss., during the seventies, is in danger. Prizes have been offered by the citizens of Vicksburg to the officers of the big steamer City of Louisville and an attempt will be made to lower the time record between the river points.

There was a time in the fifties and sixties when Shippingport and Portland were ports of considerable importance to steamboats. That was when the big New Orleans boats could neither come up over the falls nor get through the locks of the old canal. The enlargement of the locks had the effect to break up the steamboat business at both places, Portland being the most important of the two. Portland was a busy, bustling, thriving place in those days, and the business houses on the river front did a big business. For years it has been a desolate, deserted looking place, and today the river front looks like the ragged edge of nowhere, while Shippingport has changed considerably and does not look like it did 40 years ago when Jim Porter, the Kentucky giant, was the biggest man in the place. Jim lived there "longer" than anybody ever did. He was over seven feet tall.—Courier-Journal

NOT IDENTIFIED

REMAINS OF DROWNED MAN AT FULTON NOT MOODY.

Fulton, Feb. 25.—The man who fell from a trestle into Harris Fork creek and was drowned is not Bob Moody, as previously reported. The remains are yet unidentified. Deceased was 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighed 130 pounds, had a sandy mustache, wore No. 5 shoes, and his hands showed he was a laborer. He had 50 cents in money, but no papers to lead to identification. Hundreds of people viewed the remains at the Ford Bros.' undertaking establishment, but no one has yet recognized them.

Mr. S. A. Fowler, who has been in New York for five months past, is expected home the last of this week.

MEETING TODAY

Baseball Promoters Gather in Henderson.

Another Meeting to Be Held to Decide on a Schedule of Games.

Mr. Sam Jackson, the local representative of the baseball association, is today meeting with the other league representatives at Henderson and all arrangements for the organization of the league will have been completed before the meeting is closed.

Mr. Jackson will attend a subsequent meeting of the league promoters to arrange a schedule of games for the season. This will be done however after the players have been picked over. In many instances players have written several different cities and all claim options on them. Paducah has offers from several good players and the same men have offered their services to other cities. This will likely cause some little trouble if two cities get into a dispute over a player. Paducah will take none but the best, however, and it is assured that she will be represented by the best procurable.

It is not known how long the meeting will be held at Henderson but will probably last two days at the least. Cairo, Paducah, Hopkinsville, Owensboro, Henderson, Lexington, Clarksville and Jackson are represented and ready to sign up and become members of the league. It will require but little time to effect the permanent organization but other matters will be subsequently taken up and discussed which will consume greater time.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Among the people supporting Dainty May Sargent, late leading woman with Margaret Mather and Madame Modjeska companies, who may play an engagement here soon in "Other People's Money," are well known and prominent artists. Conspicuous among them are David Marnell, the well known comedian; Eva Thatcher, a metropolitan favorite; Zella Covington, the prominent "juvenile" man; John R. Robinson, the man who made the play "Paradise Alley" the talk of New York and Boston; Hazel Kilday, the popular and sweet little ingenue, etc., etc.

Miss Sargent bears striking resemblance to America's famous Maude Adams, and it is said that her gowns are magnificent.

STORE BURGLARIZED.

Hopkinsville, Feb. 25.—Today B. McGee's store at Bennetts town was robbed. The thieves secured groceries to the amount of $50. Josh Davis and Harvey Kendrick are under arrest. The matter will be investigated by the grand jury.

Flexibility of a "Dorothy Do"

EASY SOLES

IT IS SAID that the woman who goes to church with squeaky shoes goes to the right place, for her SOLE needs attention. There is a good deal about the sole of a woman's shoe that needs attention. You realize it if you stop to think how much you relieve the discomfort and "hardness" of shoes by making their soles flexible.

So far as I know (and I have taken pains to examine many different makes of shoes) the "Dorothy Dodd" is the one shoe for women that is really constructed with a flexible sole.

You can tell the difference as soon as a few steps have been taken. It means comfort. And a flexible sole, as rule, will out last any rigid sole—don't overlook that!
